I few thoughts while i'm here

My name is Shane, but i am also known as Ammon. With the publication of my book on ancient America and the Native American genesis, it was decided to use AMMON as my pen-name.

Moving on from such a trivial detail, there is an urgency upon every single one of us- the curtains in your living room are on fire- there is an enemy raging against the purest and simplest of truth - this book that i created is a monument to something of great worth-

My book is a documentary of proof - evidence - in showing what is true - i cast light upon that which the world in the main stream of popularity does not value -

It is of urgent importance that every person - go and get the record of the former inhabitants of the american continent - read it - and find out that it is true- for it is true. BUT, the blizzard that ariseth even now, will change the playing balance- and it may well become much harder to achieve this discovery in the coming days-i have reasons for all that i say -

I want to mention another thing that is just really cool ! In another documentary book that i authored, there is a chapter called , The Transition. The book is about Near Death Experiences (NDE's) and other related things pertaining to the nature of our souls, that we all , are comprised of our spirit and our physical body.

In the world, i see alot of silly nonsense blurted around , by those who claim to know , and they lead the public down paths of incorrect doctrine and untrue perceptions.

The Chapter in my book that is called The Transition is about the situation of death. The point when a person's spirit severs from the body - the spirit continues on , while the body lays dead.

When i produced an album of music to go with the Book, called The Well of Souls, the suggestion was put forward to take the text of the whole chapter, (the Transition) and create the song using that text of the chapter as the lyrics for the vocal. I liked the idea and it worked easily.

Thus the song , The Transition, uses the chapter from the book. But what is of paramount value is the concept of life after death.

I know beyond any fraction of doubt that we do continue beyond death.

One clear way to get my point across is in the following detail: Consider the world. Living, in todays world, can be a very scary business. Lets take an imaginary scenario of, some crazy renegade country or , group of psychos who have a nuclear missile, or, a jar of deadly pathogen- and lets imagine that tomorrow, the news on your TV or Blackberry er whatever, tells you, hey, you,, sorry to inform you of this but they launched a missile and the bomb will be landing on your house ! or, the deadly virus is all over the city now , and your going to be dead in one hour.

WELL, guess what, !!! any ,, thret of that kind, anything, that means you will die righ away, - as actually , nothing that would scare me not one tiny , bit.

Because, when we die, the we will immediately find it to be a wonderful feeling of peace - light, love and peace. We will not be in some dark box, but our spirit will rise up, above and out of our bodies of pain and affliction- and, well, from interviews with thousands of people who have had a genuine NDE, in virtually all cases, they feel wonderful and, when the voice suggests to them, they are not finished and must come back, you would answer the same as them saying,, ,,uh uh- no way man- ,, i like it here- i'm staying - i'm not going back into that body of mine and into the world..

However, with gentle persuasion, the voice helps people to realize, they need to come back to their loved ones, or back to their life in any case- for indeed, we are told,, "you have a purpose" there is good work for you to still accomplish.

My brothers and sisters, again my point - as we travel the rest of this life that we are in together now at this time, out of all the things to dread or be afraid about, well, any of the things that are about something that will kill you,, well don't even worry about those ones. Because death, will be birth. And will be sweet. -- BUT- WAIT-- having said this- i must add one further crucial added point- My description of how sweet death can be, must not be taken as any kind of invitation or suggestion to speed that destination up. LOL. in other words- suicide- , or even causing your own death to happen. NO.

Because while i am saying there is no reason to fear death, we damn well do need to fear and dread death, if our works are rotten. For it is also true, that on departure from this life, our own wickedness will smite us as a hot burning iron. - our regret will be severe, with no way no way at all, to undo, the hurt and harm we have done to others. The levels of evil that some people embrace - spitting upon the mercy and grace of the Holy One, and those who dance with satan while at the same time, defiling the name of Heavenly Father, and also rejecting Him, - . Like for example, i saw on youtube, a little video depicting God as being a monkey and masturbating- and the were pages and pages of people laughing and praising the geniusness of the video, how clever, how cute-then also, there is,, uh, well, ,, nevermind,, no need to cite more examples- but my point is- if that is road of life we choose to revel in- then ,, sorry- all bets are off about, a sweet welcome release from pain and worry when death comes upon our body. So, the problem will not be, God standing there judging us with a whip- no. It will be our own conscience, our own pain of burning fire of regret- lost chances- that can never return- combined with, the master who we served in this life, if it is Lucifer, that a person serves- well- you can be sure, The master of hell will be there to claim his subjects- and satan's way is all about imprisonment- chains of force-

While our Heavenly Father's way, as also the way and manner of His Only Begotten Son, is a life of free choice- and individual liberty. Equity- etc.

And i'm not referring to re-incarnation.

I refer to the eternal nature of our spirit. And the fact that through the power and merits of Jesus Christ, we all shall be brought forth in the resurrection- our spirit re-united with our physical body. The righteous shall obtain a resurrection unto eternal life and shall find joy and happiness. While those who love darkness and hatred- those who take pleasure in the hurt and harm of children, those who lie to the harm of others, and they who abuse and exercise unrighteous dominion and laugh about it- they too will be resurrected - but the fruit of their works shall follow them. Simply, the same goes for all of us- the fruit of our deeds, will follow us- and we shall be, what we made of ourselves.

HOWEVER, one bit of very good news is, our failings, our shortcomings, flaws and sins, can be absorbed by the Lord our God- the Saviour, Jesus Christ if we turn to Him and seek honestly to repent and do better.

If my words sound like i'm on some kind of preaching kick, forget that. To me, all of this line of thought is not, 'religion'. Frankly, i don't think i like religion. To me, religions, are the philosophies of men, often corrupt- often with hidden agendas. BUT, the true doctrine Jesus Christ, and the love we must have toward our Eternal Father in heaven, and the love we must have toward the Lord Almighty, he who is the creator of this earth and our Saviour,, well, these things are part of real life. Part of breathing, day to day. Reading the scriptures and kneeling down in personal prayer, communication heart to heart- spirit to spirit with our Eternal Father in heaven- this is not religion, this is truth- and living.

I mentioned the scriptures- i will define what i mean by that: The Bible, Old and New Testaments, as long as they are translated correctly. The King James version is the one i hold to. Also, The Book of Mormon is scripture as is the Bible. If time allows, i will explain why that is true.

The reason i bring these details up, is because we are living in a day of urgency.

Everyone, must go and find out the truth of this and build upon it within your own relationship with God- for - i am loathe to say- a fierce day is descending upon us. And we're going to need Him. We will need the deep conviction of faith. I hope the storm will be brief.

But i emphasize, today, it is possible to go and get the scriptures that i speak of, and read them prayerfully- and obtain faith and vision from the Lord our God- but, in the moment of calamity- it is not going to be nearly so easy to perform this righteous step.

You will be as those who were unprepared, banging at the door and walls of the Ark of Noah. But the door was shut. If we don't diligently do this - we will be as the foolish part of the ten virgins in the parable spoken by Jesus- and the foolish ones did not have the oil in their lamps to survive the day - but when they asked the wise for assistance, the answer was,, -- go and get your own oil- we can't give you ours- you need to get it for yourself- but alas, there was no time for them to do it.

I see so many so many ,, arrogant foul mouthed filthy minded - faithless, aggressive comments from people, on various postings in blogs around the internet. So, if any of my thoughts seem judgemental or harsh, i merely speak with directness, because of the contrast of some of the extreme negatives that are out there, combined with the high importance and urgency upon these things that all of us must bear up with.

Christmas celebration

Shane here; at this time of year, we are exchanging Merry Christmas wishes to one another. i want to add my wish of a good Christmas season to ev'ryone here on IMW.

Walt and those who give time and talent to the admin of this site deserve special thanks and appreciation; thank you Walt, Frank, KOR, and to any administrators that i haven't named here, i think i can speak for others - that we wish you a Merry Christmas and thanks for such a great OMD.

The layout of IMW still beats, all the others that i have looked at - and indeed, the clear, and user friendly layout is one of the things that keeps making this site a strong preferred place for me.

My intent with this blog is to talk about Christmas. This holiday has approached and arrived, lightning fast- and it will be gone just as fast- so, i want to savour the enjoyment of Christmas while it's here.

But, at the same time, depending on one's perspective, i might be a bit of a trouble maker as well. What i mean is, over the past few years, or several years, i hear of various philosophies and elements of society that complain about the religious nature of christmas holiday.

Indeed, it is true that the campaigning of various parties has succeeded in pulling the nativity theme of the birth of Jesus right out of many public situations. It has become increasingly difficult to find christmas cards in stores that depict the nativity scene of the birth of Jesus.

I don't know what extent this has reached in the USA at present, but here in England, for the most part, Nativity themed Christmas cards are extremely rare and - not present in the stores. Instead, we have a vast assortment of, teddy bears, rabbits, and lovely snow covered roadways and cottages. At the same time, many stores and people adapt the spelling of Christmas, into, Xmas. isnt that kinda obvious !!!! the world is taking Christ right out of his own birthday. LOL.

BUT-- i must also add here, sometimes, i catch myself going along, headstrong, full blast ahead, thinking i am doing everything right- and then, afterward, along the way i realize i'm being a big jerk. So,, if someone likes to use the term xmas- i have to say, hey no problem. - so, i've got a bit of a self contradiction here because, i want to stand up for the Christ element of christmas- but, it is also a holiday of family, feast, and good times. Maybe a few days off work- maybe catch a buzz- or maybe definately catch a buzz !! 😊

So, ok, Christmas is very much, two holidays compiled together- the religious side, combined with the need to celebrate life and enjoyment. Both are important and while i want to honour and highlight the religious element- i loathe the idea of accidentally, treating anyones opinions with a dogmatic religious stance. -

So, this is one of the ways, i might be a little bit annoying to some people regarding christmas-,, because i feel somehow, helpless - if i dont speak up. do i have to sit quietly and be polite- while the world says, 'the presence of these religious icons is violating my personal brain space.' 'we therefore demand that the jesus nativity cannot be displayed at the shopping mall' etc etc.

I agree that religious views should not be pushed on people. All people have the right to seek the truth - if they want to - and be free to not go that way if they want to - yet at the same time, should people who know that Jesus is Lord, sit by and silently cooperate with forces that would totally remove our faith in God altogether if they could be allowed to do so ?

I do not wish to sound pious , nor self religious at all. no , i'm not built like that. Shall i list my sins and all my rowdy exploits in the pursuit of having one long non stop party as a hard rock guitar enthusiast and singer ? no,, i better not go into that. My point is, i dont want to sound like some kind of marshmellow jesus freak- Yet, I know that He lives ! i acknowledge that many people equally know that. And in this world , we are in a war ! that war began in heaven when Lucifer drew a third of our brothers and sisters with him, as they were seduced by the rebellion which Lucifer waged against The Anointed one- he , who was to be the Redeemer and Saviour of mankind. Therefore, in this war, i cannot accept the position of sitting silently in my corner . And quietly allow the world to slowly wipe away from our lives the identity and presence of the Lord our God. My vote is:

Christmas, is a traditional holiday to commemorate and celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ in to this world.

So , one final point of emphasis, who is , Jesus Christ ? why does it matter, whether we honour Him or not ? the answer is as follows: God our Heavenly Father and Jesus Christ are two separate and distinct individuals. Jesus, is the only Begotten Son of god , upon this earth. In the mortal flesh, Jesus truly is the Son of God.

Now most people know that i, shane , am a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints , also known as the Mormon church. So , yes it is perfectly correct to say, I am a Mormon. What many people do not fully understand , is where this name 'Mormon' comes from. And why, are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter day saints , also called Mormons.

I'll tell you what,, i personally think, it would be very helpful for everyone, if people in general understood exactly the basis for this and how it happens that we are called Mormons.

One reason i think it would help is, 'Mormon' sounds really wierd !!! doesn't it ! ?

It almost sounds creepy. However let me stae right away that there is actually no problem whatsoever. At the moment i'm busy here trying to share some thoughts and remarkable things about Christmas, so , i wont go into it at the moment, but, with new years day , i will give the details here and clarify what's all this about , this word,, name, Mormon that the church and its people are known by.

Back to the subject of Christmas, i brought up the word Mormon because, many people think that Mormon's believe that Mary, was not quite a virgin when Jesus was born. These people cloaim that we believe that God actualy impregnated Mary- through the same way that is normally achieved. This rumour is absolutely wrong.

The official doctrine held by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints regarding this is; Mary, the mother of Jesus, 'was overshadowed by the Holy Ghost' and , by some miraculous means that we don't claim to fully understand, the seed of God our eternal Heavenly Father was placed within Mary, sufficient to fertilize and commence her pregnancy, unto the birth of the baby Jesus.

One scriptural event that i will cite, that may help give some clarity to this concept- of Mary concieving a pregnancy without a physical intimate connection- think of the event in the new testament when after the crucifixion and death of Jesus, the disciples were in a gathered in a room, and Jesus was suddenly there in the midst of them. And he was not just an apparition- remember he said to them "Handle me and see, for a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have" ,, and thereafter, Jesus did eat of the fish and meal they had there. So, a solid item, ie, the person and body of the Lord, was able to materialise into a place- and the record says 'where the door was shut'. likewise, is it not easier even, for something from God the father to have been put into Mary miraculously.

(i have been very careful in my wording here. alot of things would have been easier to say by just using more common terms- but - this is a discussion of a sacred situation- so i've tried to find a way of conveying my point without common terms - reverence and respect is needed)

So, i can declare in plain truth, Mormon's believe that Mary was literally a virgin, while she became pregnant and carried her baby- Jesus. our Lord and Saviour was born of the virgin Mary. :

moving on to another abstract: Let me create a hypothetical description here, as a foundation for a thought process; if tomorrow morning when you wake up, you look out the window and see a warm and beautiful glow of light , that is spreading and gently covering the street from one end to the other. this light proceeds to permeate the house you are in , the sky, the trees, and literally everything. This light is a power that causes all sickness and disease to wash away from all nations. This light causes all the deceit and corruption of men to be corrected or removed- thus, what follows is an abundance of food for all nations - and hunger is no longer experienced by children in war torn regions.

And you,, you who must rise up at the shrill grab of an alarm clock on many mornings, only to rush off to a place that is often much like a sentence of slavery- in order to earn a wage that is all grabbed up before you even get it in the bank- so , instead of pursuing your dreams and the love of your heart you are forever consigned to a squirrel cage drudgery - but, this light that has spread across your street and all the world , banishes your slavery , and now, you go to , whatever work you have chosen because it fulfills you , as a person.

There is no trace of fear, lurking in the back places in your soul- no fear - of anything - for there is no need. All of this, does not mean you have a weak life of no challenges- on the contrary, you now can sieze upon greater challenges than you ever could- challenges available on the wide beautiful earth , which is healthy and wondrous . - end scenario.

To me, that picture, is Christmas in a way. Because this holiday commemorates the coming of Jesus Christ into this world- to commence and fulfill His mortal mission. He is the Creator of the earth, and His work, is to bring to pass a world like i have just described. yet, my fanciful description is far inferior compared to the beautiful Earth that the Lord our God has in his power and in his plan to bring about.

Ancient prophets wrote of christ's birth and his life, centuries before He came

My point - if we grasp the real picture- Christmas is a cause to rejoice and celebrate. The sentences in those carols are a great declaration actually. Joy to the world, the Lord is come- Let earth , receive her King... etc.

But look at what we are like. Us lot. Slouches. many times selfish, many of us rebel against our own Father in Heaven, hating truth and loving lies. Yes, we need some polishing up first, so that when the Creator brings this world to its paradisiacal state, there will be a people fit to inherit it. And that people can be all of us- and a place to start is Christmas. The message and meaning of it.

I have alot more to say about this holiday- some errors in the standard traditions of it, and some tremendous things about the resplendant truth of it.

if time lets me, i'll be back.
