

BillyD

BAND STORY

In a world where most mainstream music is all processed and sugar-coated, there are still musicians who manage to bring real heart and soul to the table. BillyD is a 26 year old R&B/Soul artist born and raised in Washington D.C., USA. Raised around different styles of music and cultures, BillyD has a well-rounded understanding of many types of music. He instilled this into his own music as he developed his own personal unique style.

Although still quite new to the Independent music scene, his arrival in 2008 was strong with the jazzy debut, "When Will I?" which allowed listeners to hear the smooth style and sound of a real passionate artist. He spent the next 2 years writing and producing the music that would make up the highly anticipated 2011 album debut, "The Impossible". It introduces him as a soulful artist with a story to tell. Truly emotional and moving music; songs about the rough path to overcoming all obstacles, prevailing amongst hardships, and surviving the storm of life's trials. BillyD is ready to keep making music that not only allows him to assuage the hurt and pain he has endured, but also to help others who have been through similar experiences to know they are not alone. The lyrics and message behind his music is deep, but this is his therapy and his release.

R&B music is not dead by any means. BillyD hopes to keep that standard going strong with his blend of real Heart & Soul music. The theme behind his music is motivating and powerful: "Anything Is Possible". Not afraid to try new things and devoted to staying true to his vision, BillyD gives you nothing but his best and nothing less. He invites you on his emotional Journey with him and promises nothing but love, heart & soul.

"Leaving It All Behind" - BillyD - Brand New 2012 Single!

I know it has been such a very long time since I last posted a song here or anywhere for that matter. The last song I posted was "Never Got To Say Goodbye" last March 2011. Last year was very difficult & traumatic for me. When I ended up in Florida, I knew that I had finally left behind me all the troubles & pain that had plagued me all my life. I wrote this song on the train ride down to Florida last August & I finally got the chance to bring the music to life.

So much has changed for me. I am busier than ever & working a great deal now. I don't have the time like I used to have to work on music, surf the web, or relax for that matter. Life comes first no matter what. I am very happy to be sharing this song with you. I hope that you enjoy it. This is "Leaving It All Behind" - enjoy!!

Where You Been BillyD?

I know it has been some time since I have posted a new song or been visible online. Life has taken some nice turns for me & I haven't looked back. Since moving to Florida in August, I have really discovered real purpose in my life. Being on my own away from everything I have ever known is the best change I could have ever asked for.

Music is and always will be a very important part of my life. I can't shake that. It now has its place. Back in 2008, my world was very dark & dim. I needed to embrace something to help keep me sane & be a positive outlet for me. I decided to record my music & it has been all gravy from there.

Now I find that I am filling my day with the natural, regular things that anyone fills their day with on a regular basis. I actually have a regular schedule, a decent job, and goals set before me. Kinda how life should be. Music is not at the center of my life. It is an important part of who I am, but doesn't dictate everything.

I am still writing & still producing here & there. I am currently blueprinting ideas for the next album. The difference this time around is that I am working on my music when I can & when it is convenient. I actually have a life now, lol. I work on music whenever I can & am content. How should be.

The BillyD I am today is a very different one than who started out in 2008. This BillyD is focused, happier, stronger, and free. I am truly happy.

What I have decided to do is work on the new album one track at a time & release one song from it once its close to being fully complete. Yeah, this might be months down the road, but I want the new album to be heard in its entirety from beginning to end like a new chapter in a story. If I release every song, then that story is not anticipated the same & it won't be as special. I believe that real music should be nurtured & polished before it is put on display for the world to hear. It will be worth waiting for.

I haven't had time to sit at the computer & just hang out on any sites lately. It used to be easy to do because I was always at home & had nothing else better to do, lol. Now things are different & I try to pop my head around when I can. My love for Independent Music is still there. Nothing has changed. I will support it the best that I can...when I can. All that matters.

Well, that pretty much sums it all up right there. Work is great. Florida is great. BillyD is great. Life is good!

I hope everyone has been well...I will see you around town real soon!
