Comments lead to great things...

Hello dear IMW'ers...

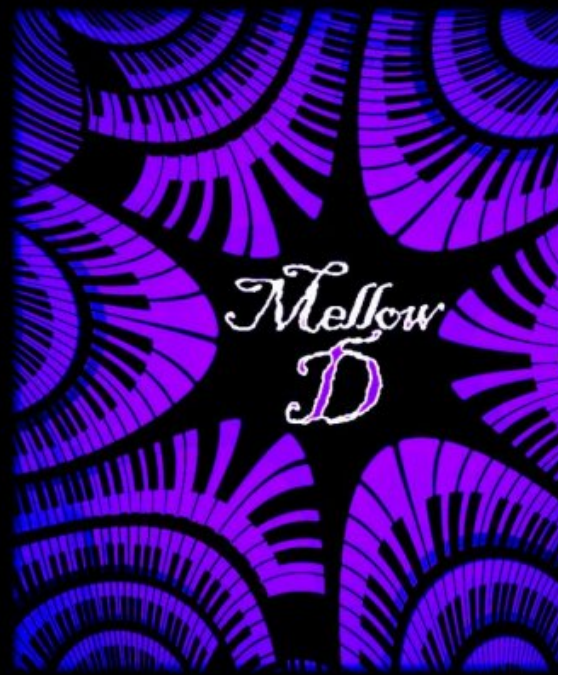

I recently re-realized the magnitude of commenting on someones creation... I am one who seems to find excuses to not spend a few minutes spinning someones song and leaving a comment of how it made me feel or what it made me picture in my minds eye... You know how it is when you spend night after night tweaking your musical creation till it is just perfect then you excitingly release it to be hopefully experienced by someone... When you do comment on some songs you will discover that you will get plays on your page and possible artist messages thanking you for the time you spent.. All in all take some time to listen and comment if you would like activity.... just keep that in mind..... :D
