BENNY AND THE MISPLACED TEXANS

The Misplaced Texans is an international pop/rock band that mixes classic songwriting styles with a straight forward, modern sound with a Euro flavor. Their unique style is awash with the guitar riffs of German guitarist Henry Mitnacht, seduced by the mellow, crisp sounds of Texas singer-songwriter Benny Moore. Rocker Dave Patterson adds his Canadianized touch of pain and drama with heavy, melancholic overtones and providing the icing on the cake are the bittersweet words of internationally-known lyricist Casia. Merged together, are they truly "Misplaced"? They are inspiring...dramatic....satisfying...and undoubtedly a band you will want to listen to Again and Again.

Thanks to our many session Players: Andy Gupta, Ian Burrage, Bobby, Bill

Special thanks to Mario Bianchi of Italy who is quickly becoming truly misplaced himself. Stay tuned for several upcoming songs with a new twist. If you can read Italian, you can check him out or at least listen to his tunes:

I am pleased to let everybody know that we have a new member in our group, Dave Patterson (Vancouver, Canada). I did my very first on-line collaboration with Dave called "Dark Demons". This song actually hit "No. 1" on Ourstage and has been voted song No. 1 for a CD Rock compilation as well. Not only is Dave a "Hot Rocker Guitarist" he is an amazing painter and I've used one of his paintings for my album "Destiny's Fire" with Yolande Strauss. Welcome Dave, can't wait to move forward with some of your tunes xxx.

This band is really the brainchild of Benny Moore from Texas. I (Casia) met Benny several months ago and fell in love with his music and ideas and his great voice. I invited him to join a virtual studio I belonged to and we started collaborating on a variety of my lyrics. Benny is simply the best melody maker I have ever met. He can take any of my lyrics, set them to music and have me howling at the moon.

Then one day, a lonesome stranger from Germany appeared from behind a giant tumbleweed bringing with him a guitar and a hat full of riffs to blow our minds. Henry Mittnacht, alias Doc Midnite jumped on his white stallion and we had a showdown like none you've ever seen. Obviously we invited him to join our little campfire and he's quite a back-up vocalist too.

And how can a Texas band be complete without adding a real cowboy from the Alberta badlands of Canada, Andy Gupta. It doesn't really matter that he's originally from across the puddle and a jolly good lad, he's still one bad- bassplayer and hey, he can sing too....I've heard him.

Finally, no band can be complete without a drummer. And, I'm not just talking any drummer..I'm talking one of the craziest drummers you'll ever NOT meet. He's so crazy, we tend to keep him locked up in his padded cell most of the time and only let him out to drum and mix. You might recognize him..you may even be friends with him but beware, Ian Burrage from Stonehinged (Norfolk, England) is a man of many faces.

There is something you must know, Benny and the rest of this crew are damn good lyric writers too and I love being part of this group. The ideas are overflowing from our ten gallon hats :). Stay tuned for a saloon full of exciting pop-rock tunes. We really aren't country.

Oh, BTW, maybe I should say a bit about myself. I am a lyric writer from Canada and collaborate with 100+ solo indie artists and bands from around the world. I'm currently working on five albums with different groups and this is just about the most fun I have ever had.

I hope you enjoy what we do as much as we enjoy playing and making music for you.
