LATEST NEWS

Yeah... I'm still here. :)

Well, I crawled out from under my rock to participate in the Cover Undercover Project sponsored by the site. It was a really cool thing to do, and I haven't felt so inspired in years. If you're not familiar with it (well, and even if you are familiar with it) go here:

and take a look around. The tracks were all exceptional! Some really good tunes and the amount of respect that the originals were handled with is kinda cool to witness. One person is going to win a nice set of headphones, but that's not really the important part of this. The important part is you can hear the original along side of the cover and see the artist's creativity exposed. You can get a glimpse into what makes the artist who they are by listening to the differences... That's uber-cool!

What? You want to know what I've been doing?? Oh! Well, I finished up another tune before the cover tune. I think I've got 8 or 9 tunes done. Not a complete CD, but I'm getting there. I think I want to have 12 or 13 tunes before I will feel like I can drop them as a whole project. Granted, it will only be on CD-Rs and they won't have a bar code, but it'd my way of putting my stuff out on a CD without having to worry about the logistics of production and distribution. Just getting people to listen to it is what I'm shooting for.

That's all the news that's fit for reporting as of right now. Go forth and listen!
